Senior Counselor
1970

In the life of each of us, there comes a time . . .

. . . when we must pause to look back and see by what straight or twisting ways we have arrived at the place where we find ourselves.

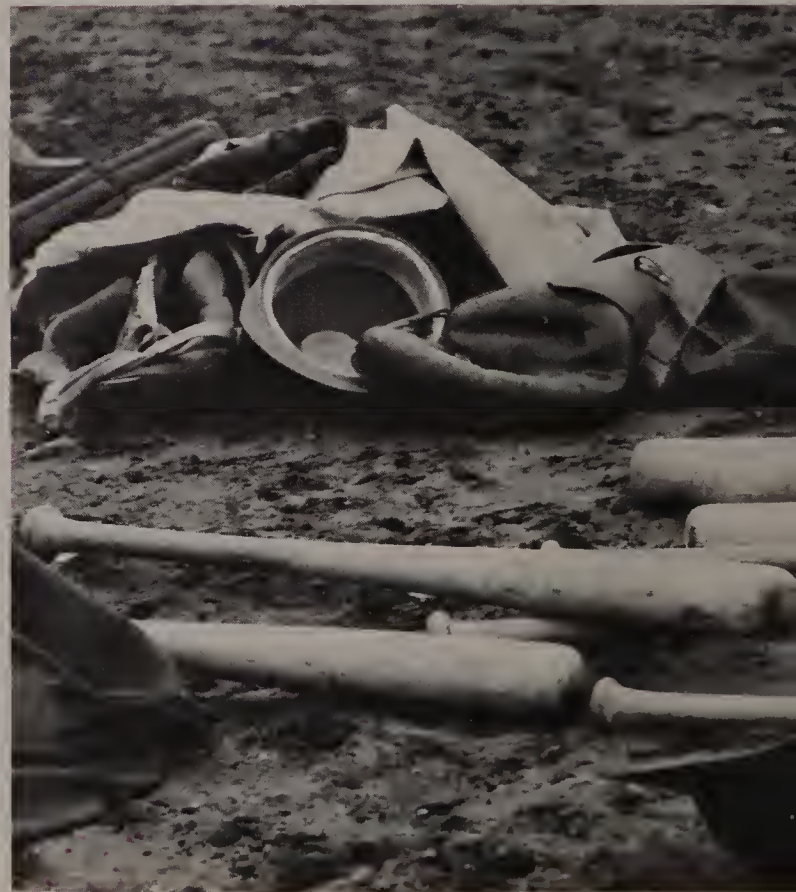

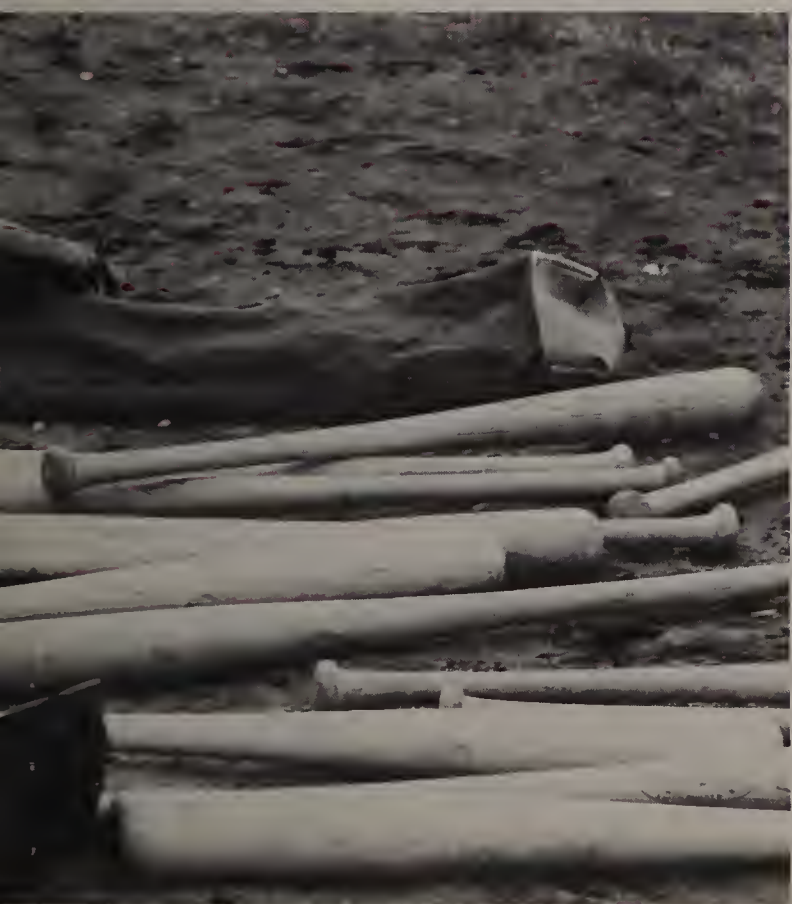

Instinct is not enough . . .

. . . and even hope is not enough.

We must have eyes to see where we have missed
this turn or that.

. . . and where we struggled through dark thickets that threatened to confound us.

I know that I have arrived at such a time.

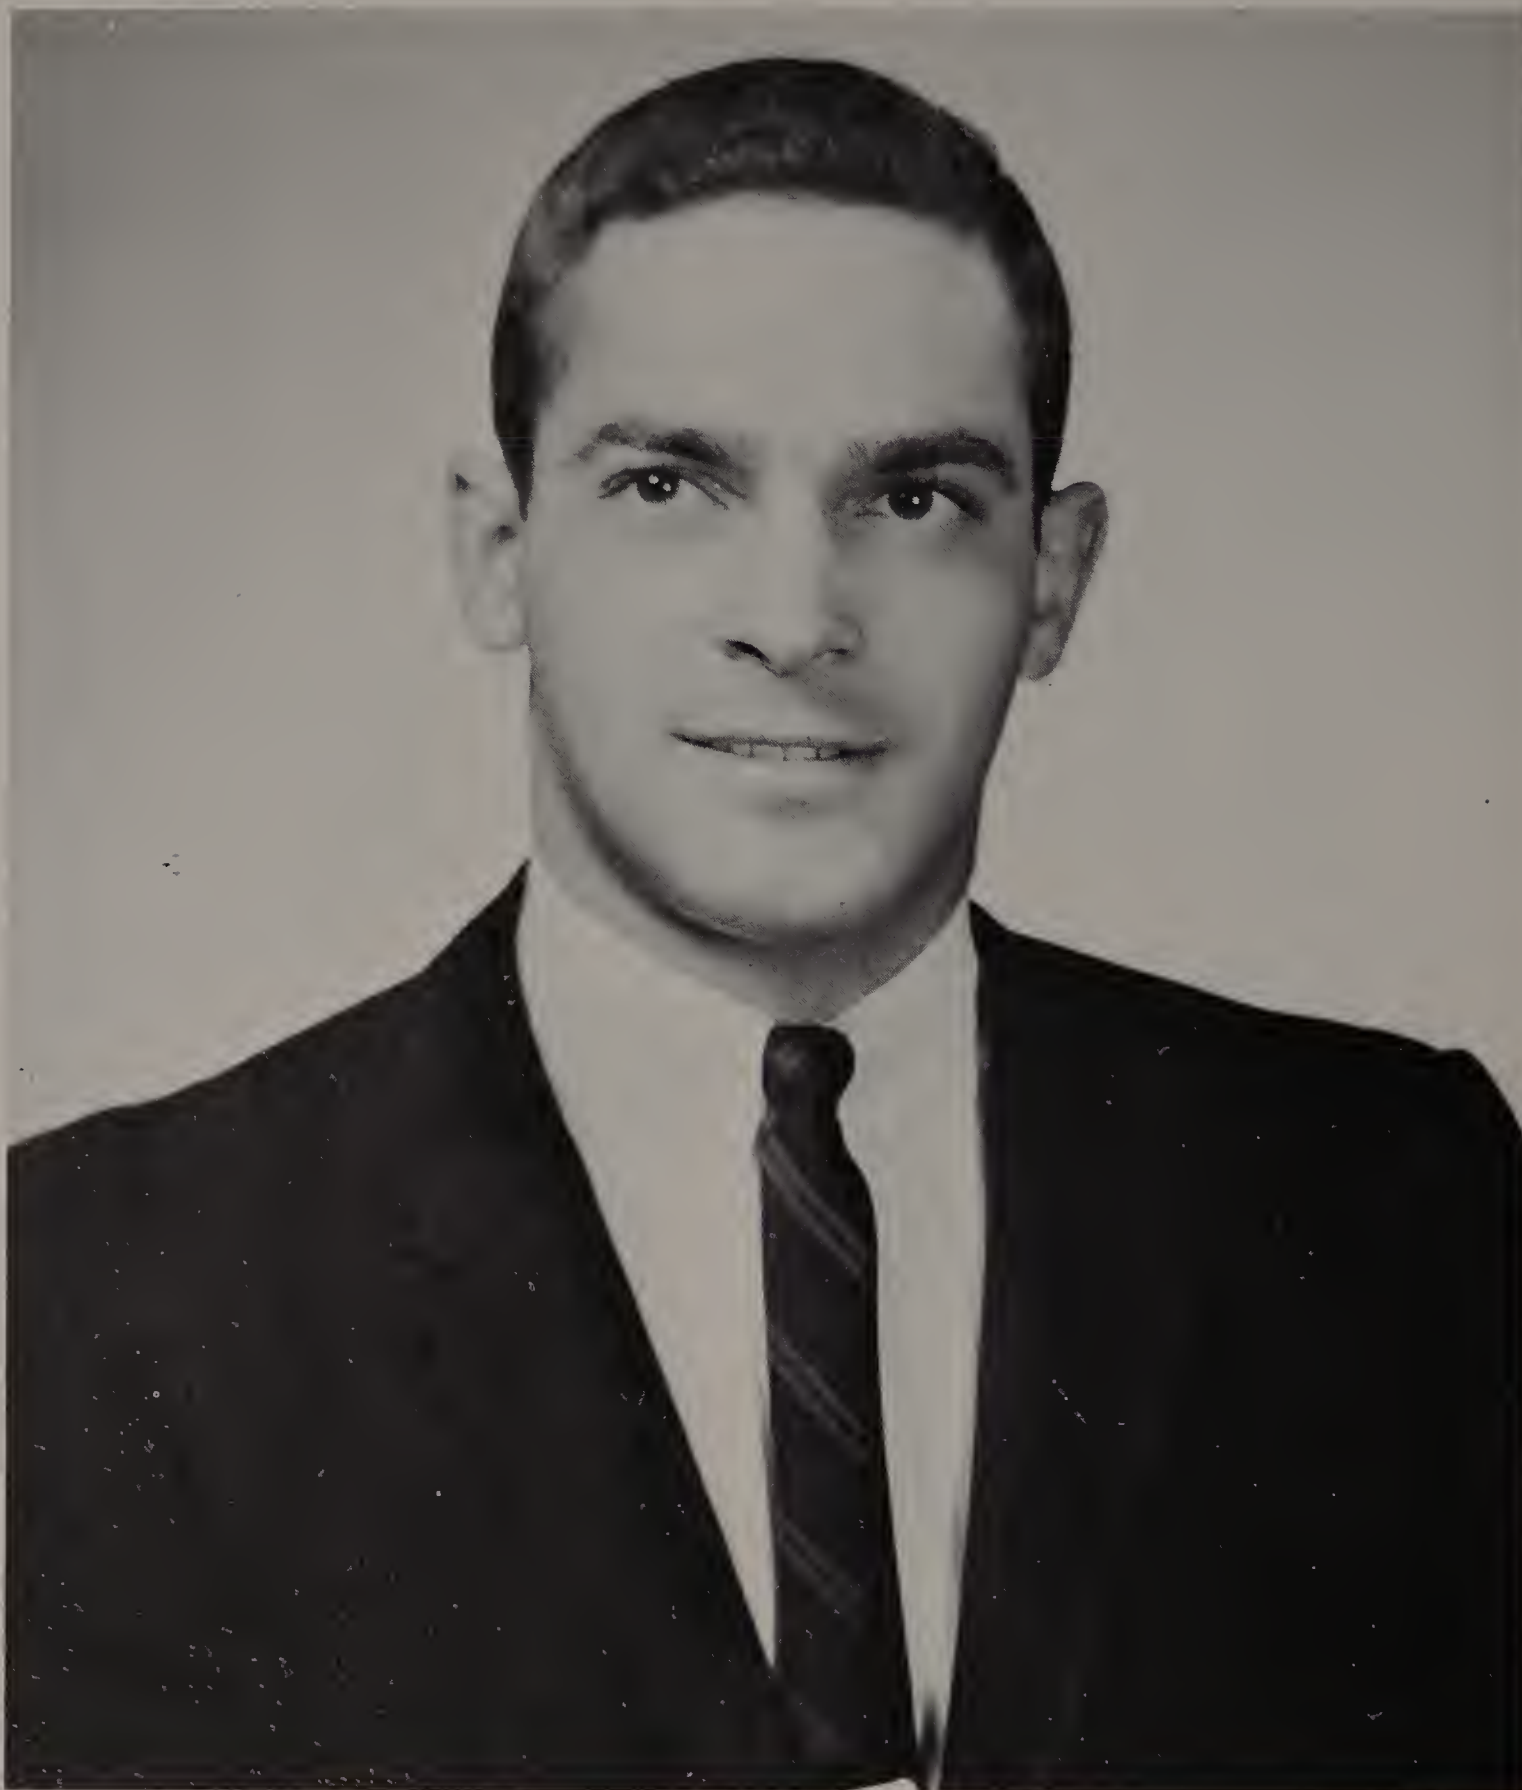

ACADEMICS

Dedication

We The Class of 1970 have recognized that the qualifications of a high school graduate, in a rapidly progressing society, have become inordinately complex. Therefore we have realized that more than a formal education is required. Besides intellectual academics, one must also develop socially and physically to be a cognizant cog in the wheel of modern living.

Among the many competent instructors at Woburn High School one individual has dedicated himself to presenting these intellectual, social and physical necessities in multiple fashion. Intellectually he has been stimulating in the classroom while never avoiding good humor or discarding student problems. Socially he has helped us reach maturity by his sound guidance and leadership as chief advisor to the Student Council, and certainly as former advisor to our Freshman Class. Physically as Coach of the Soccer Team he has clearly demonstrated his knowledge and athletic prowess in accumulating an enviable record as well as the respect of his team, their opponents and coaches.

Therefore if it is possible in our future lives to concern ourselves in society in as many ways as this person has concerned himself with The Class of 1970 then much of our success must rest in a sense by our emulating him.

We dedicate The 1970 Innitou to a most dedicated, responsible, personable and concerned individual you . . .

Mr. Robert DeLuca

To the Class of 1970:

You are the first class to be graduated in this new decade of the seventies. Sometimes we feel that when a new decade begins, we have left behind the errors of the past and are given a chance to start anew. The nineteen sixties was indeed a troubled period in the history of our country and of the world. It is deplorable that the problems of war, famine, air and water pollution, slum areas, and many more, that were a part of your early life, are still with us. If they could have been solved you might now go forth upon graduation day into a utopian world where each of you would be free to pursue his individual happiness.

However, man always has needed challenge in order to progress. The discovery of fire, the invention of the wheel, the taming and use of electricity, and most recently, the reaching out into space to walk on the moon, were all brought about by man's basic need for challenge.

You are entering a world of challenge. Whatever your native talent may be, you can use it to help in the solution of at least one of these diversified problems. During the next ten years you will have launched upon a career. Hopefully you will have dedicated yourself to the full use of your talents for the betterment of society.

We, of an older generation, are proud of you. We have faith in your youth, energy, and intelligence. You will help write the story of the coming decades. May it be a "giant step forward in the history of man." God bless each of you.

DR. J. FRANK HASSETT

I. Edward Marashio assistant to the superintendent

Assistant Superintendent Jerome T. Lynch

To the graduating class of 1970:

The beginning of a new decade renews the perennial hopes for peace and happiness that rest in the hearts of mankind.

Only ten years ago, we looked forward with keen anticipation to the "Golden Sixties." Looking back, we see in despair, the events that not even the wisest of prophets could predict — the impressions of disorder, the conflicts of environment and race, and overall the strain of the war in Vietnam.

Yet as we look ahead we have hope, for now as a people we are critically examining our goals and our lives, often at the urging of the youth in our society. Never before have we so honestly examined the problems of ecology.

A people who solved the incredible feat of reaching and exploring the moon in the sixties, surely should be able to solve the gradual deterioration of our environment on this planet in the seventies.

Our hopes lie with you, for you will be the people who will fashion for good or evil, the opportunities that are available as we enter this decade.

May the close of the decade of the seventies demonstrate that you have confounded the present prophets of pessimism. It is a mighty challenge that requires the dedication and optimism of the Class of 1970.

House Plan Adopted

Woburn Senior High School's class of 1970 was the first to see the House Plan in effect. Housemasters were elected to the four classes in the Senior High and ultimately became advisors, disciplinarians, and social directors in addition to their duties as teachers. The plan brought about a much closer rapport between students and administrators and many heretofore problematic decisions were resolved with relative ease. Because of the competency of Paul Murphy, Joseph Curran, Peter Varoutsos, and James Foley, The House Plan is here to stay.

Control Stations Efficient

Two areas which are vital to the efficient functioning of the school are the office communications center and the Health suite. Office duties include arranging appointments, compiling "The Reflector" and disseminating information throughout the school. The nurses in the Health Suite provide for the general physical well-being of both students and teachers.

Leadership — Responsibility — Pride

The Naval Science Department is a recent addition to the many courses of study offered to the young men of Woburn High School.

The Naval Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps Program has been established through an Act of Congress and has been approved by the Secretary of the Navy. The purpose of the Program is to develop leaders with a strong sense of responsibility, pride, and self-reliance.

The Naval Cadets meet twice weekly in regular classroom study. They explore such subjects as Naval Seapower, Naval Tradition, Oceanography, and other extremely interesting topics. On a previously specified day, the Naval Cadets assemble on the parade grounds and are instructed in the basics of close order drill and the manual of arms.

Art Department Meets Demands and Expectations of the Students

Expanded by the addition of Miss Barbara Bulova and Mrs. Dorothy Ponti at the high school, the Art Department continues to grow and meet the demands and expectations of the art (interested) and art oriented students of Woburn.

Under the direction of Mr. Frank Newark. Creative students are involved in such diversified crafts as creative design, ceramics, batik, enameling, and architecture. Also included in the course is painting, experimenting with pen and ink, charcoal, tempera, oils, and water colors, and an enlarger art appreciation course.

Versatility in Career Preparation

Students who aspire to be bookkeepers, stenographers, typists, and accountants are prepared to enter business offices, large and small, and to work at varying kinds of office occupations. The offerings of the Business Education Department appeal to many students whose individual interests and aptitudes greatly vary. However, through many course selections, the Department accommodates each student's choice.

For example, the senior who excels in word power, judgement, and capacity to reason, finds satisfaction in preparing for the roll of a secretary. The student who prefers meeting the public and who possesses a flair for design and display enjoys our co-operative distributive education classes. For the graduate who hopes to operate his own company, or work on the accounts of a business, the discipline of bookkeeping is appealing. Many other students benefit by the preparation provided in skills required of the clerical employee. Each graduate of the Business Education Course enters the business world with the background and skills necessary to pursue a successful career.

Science Meets New Challenges

Schools exist to help young people know about and participate in the life of their time. A rapidly changing society stimulated by advances in science demands an educational program designed to meet the challenge of change. Education in the sciences must go beyond the immediate and include the future. What is more important, it should provide young people with the background and intellectual talents for shaping the future in a manner that assures the welfare of human beings and sustains progress.

The science curricula at Woburn High School is dedicated to meeting these challenges through a continuing process of implementation of relevant courses and subject matter content; and predicated upon the thesis that "science teaching must result in scientifically literate citizens."

Students Reflect Excellence in Mathematics

All students, whether preparing for a business career, college or homemaking, have one course in common — mathematics. The goal of the Math Department, under the direction of Miss Virginia Hall, is to introduce forms of mathematics that will be meaningful and useful to students after graduation.

Well-trained teachers aware of what's happening in a rapidly changing field, the latest in textbooks and equipment, and an expanding math library contribute to a math department. An active Math Club, and a successful Team show that the students are taking full advantage of the math training. The Math Team has competed with teams from surrounding communities and has won distinction in many meets. Several Woburn High students have been awarded top prizes and individual honors, a fine tribute to the excellence of the Department and its instructors.

A digital computer for second semester is available in the math lab for students this year.

Aims Varied in English

Varied programs in the English Department are geared to the level of competence demonstrated by the student. The department aims to provide each student with the skills which will enable him to communicate effectively in the 1970's and 1980's.

Courses are designed to provide the student with the instruction and practice in speaking and writing so that he may be understood.

Major emphasis is directed toward developing the ability to read with perception appropriate levels of prose or poetry.

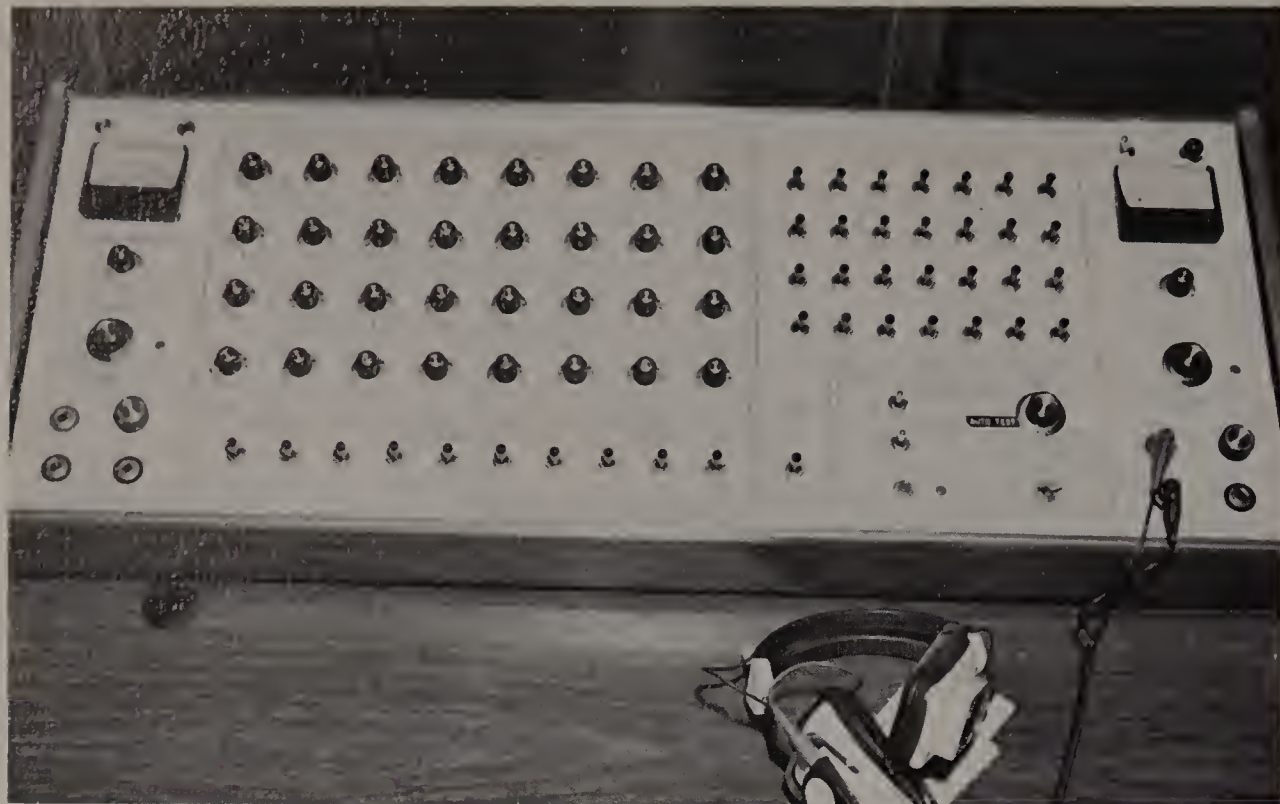

Finally the English Curriculum attempts to foster the skill of listening attentively and critically to all the forms of language.

Linguistic and Cultural Values Advanced in Foreign Languages

The programs of the Foreign Language Department are designed to help students better understand other cultures and someday communicate with these people. The wide variety of language offerings and the advanced courses offer students an excellent opportunity to attain this communication and understanding. Through the use of an audio-lingual approach, the beginning years of the language programs stress basic conversational ability and a knowledge of grammar; they also provide a basis for appreciation of more advanced work. In the upper levels of foreign language learning, students continue to develop language skills, become more familiar with the literature and civilization of the country, and learn to discuss a wide range of topics. Additional information about the art, music and culture of the countries is provided by each of the language clubs.

New Courses in Social Studies

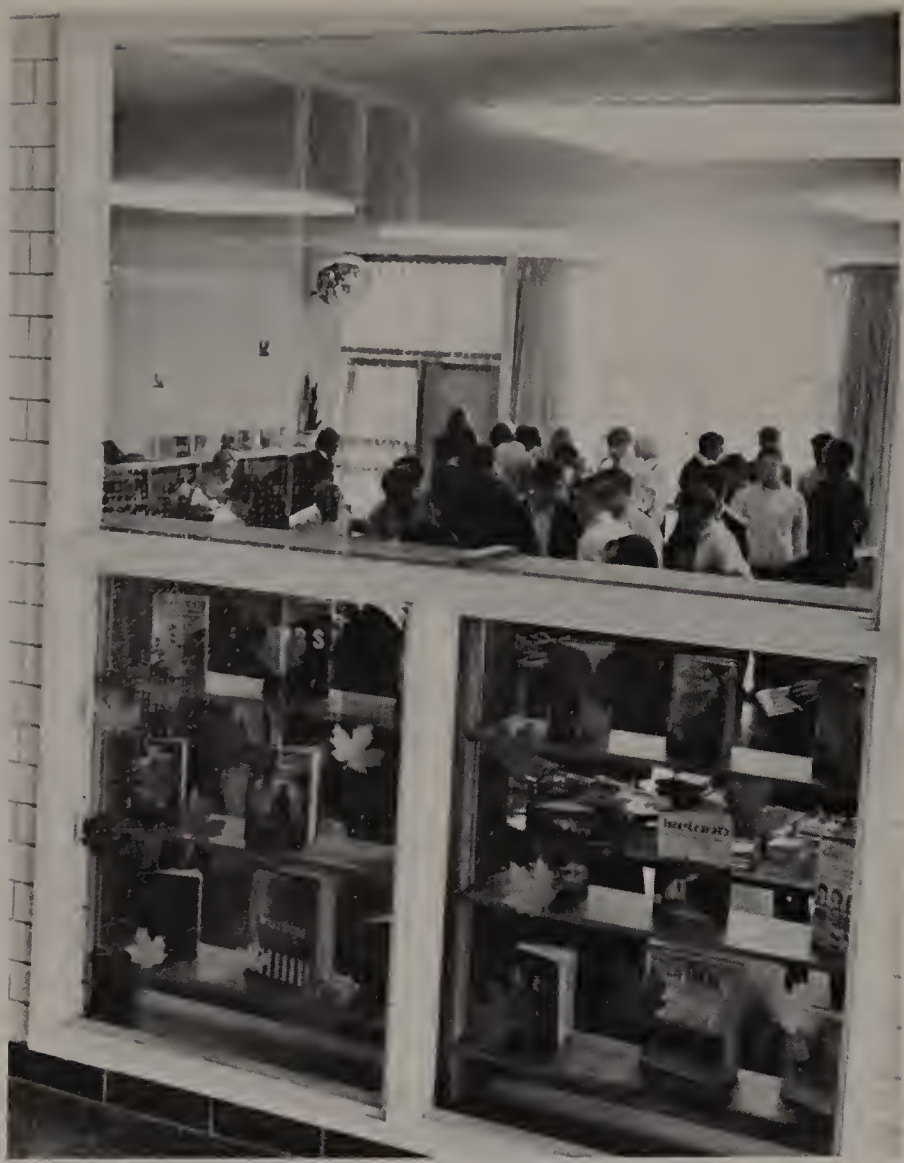

The American public has awakened to the fact that the greatest challenge to our generation is to meet the crisis in human values and living together in peace in the world today. At a time when we are celebrating the fact that the American flag has been planted on the moon we are facing more pressing and stressful human problems. No group is more aware of this than the members of the Social Studies Department. Therefore in the hope of helping the student of the next decade to become better prepared to face the challenge of living in the twenty-first century two elective causes namely: Psychology and Sociology are being added to the present Social Studies program of studies.

Diverse Opportunities Presented by Music Department

Opportunities are presented for the student to participate in many full-time musical courses or part-time musical electives. Instruction in the basics of music are supplemented by exposure to the works of the masters in an attempt to help the student refine his taste for music.

By taking part in the programs offered by the music department a student will not only learn but also gain much personal satisfaction. The interested student by participating in the band or the various choral groups receives the knowledge of the instructor along with cultivating his many talents.

Leisure Time Necessitates

Physical Education

The economic and social changes of the past sixty years have increased the importance and need for physical education. More leisure time, greater economic prosperity, wider social horizons, and increasing dependence on machines have made the need for physical education greater than ever before.

Sixty years ago, sports such as golf and tennis were for the very rich or the very young. Today there is both time and money for the enjoyment of these activities. However, athletic skills, which help people adjust successfully to increased leisure time, must be developed at an early age, when learning is in the nature of things. The school physical education program provides the basic training necessary for adult physical hobbies, which may be enjoyed alone or with others.

Artistry, Practicality, Responsibility Accentuated

Emerging homemaking instincts are channeled into fruitful activities by the Home Economics Department. Opportunities for developing creative homemaking skills are varied and challenging. Sewing provides several levels for the student to develop individual techniques in the function of design and use of fabric. Cooking instruction insures that meals prepared by each girl will be culinary and artistic successes.

The means for achieving a successful family life are presented in a course concerned with the psychological foundations of family living. The course aims to help each girl understand her responsibilities and problems, and to aid her in appreciating the problems of others.

Extra-curricular activities such as the Fashion Show and Hi-Teen Fashion Club assure practical experience and opportunity to learn from experts the latest techniques in clothing design, cooking, and cosmetics. The ultimate dividend from these endeavors will be realized by each student as she assumes a woman's role in her career, her home, and her community.

Insight Offered Into Industrial Society

The Industrial Arts Program at Woburn High School is a phase of general education. It offers students an insight into our industrial society at various levels through activity-type class room experience. The subject areas offer broad aspects involving study, planning, organization, construction, servicing, experimentation, automotives, drawing, graphic arts, metal working, wood working, and home maintenance. Since technology and industry continuously influence our lives, the Industrial Arts courses emphasize problem-solving experiences which assist students in becoming alert contributors and consumers.

Guidance Seeks Individual Self-Appraisal

The Guidance Department believes that every student is capable of being directed to maximum achievement through a knowledge of his own worth and capabilities and a mature sense of responsibility. The department is constantly striving to assist each student to reach his maximum scholastic potential and to aid him in finding the most suitable place for his creative efforts. Guidance, toward self appraisal, is the best method of helping the student realize his own potential.

A student may request an interview with his counselor whenever the need or desire arises. Discussions with parents concerning the educational opportunities for their sons and daughters are regarded as most essential. Parents who are unable, or who find it difficult to confer during regular school hours, may do so on Monday evenings, as the Guidance Office is open, by appointment, every week at this time. Guidance seeks to help the individual help himself and assists each student in making a wise choice for his benefit and the benefit of society.

Election Time

Improvised parades, impromptu speeches, phone calls, and ingenious posters spread the news that election time had arrived at Woburn High. With candidates promising reform and revolutionary policies class members had difficulty in choosing the "right" leaders.

Under supervising Student Council representatives candidates delivered fiery campaign oratory and on election day voting machines were used for tabulators. As the votes were tallied, many close races were decided and the results were announced before the end of the school day.

Homecoming and Booster Dances:

Tumblers do their thing.

The Senior class sponsored a spirit dance preceding the last home football game for the class of 1970. It not only aroused spirit for the game against Danvers, but brought unity to the class as well.

On the following Friday evening, prior to "The Game" of the season, the Thanksgiving Day Game against Winchester, the Student Council held the annual Booster Dance. The students greeted the team with tumultuous applause as they danced onto the stage in their "party" clothes.

Both events were tremendous social successes. The team was spurred on to an attempt to disrupt Winchester's untainted season.

OLD FASHIONED CHRISTMAS

On Friday evening December 12, 1969 members of the Senior Class and their dates arrived at the beautifully decorated upper school cafeteria for the festive winter dance "Old Fashioned Christmas." After the couples passed through the reception line the evening was spent dancing to the melodious strains of a popular orchestra. Because of the extraordinary efforts of the Dance Committee the trails of seniors, tests, daily bells and College Boards Exams faded into oblivion and until culmination with the lighting of the Christmas Tree the senior's pleasures were indicated by the crowded floor.

BEST ACTING IN YEARS

After long months of rehearsal the cast of the Senior Play displayed some of the best acting yet seen at Woburn High.

The mystery "Murder Takes The Stage" unfolded with the murder of Hazel Laverne (Gayle Fitzpatrick) by one of her many enemies Bob Rayfield (Jim Murphy) and its consequent solution by a young actress Mitzi Bond (Joanne Murray). Other Members of the cast were Ollie Dunning (Larry Bennett), Hal Rush (Mike McGah), Larry (Keith Gaffney), Sheriff Wiley (Greg Costopolus), Miss Liz (Susan Toye), Sara Farnham (Gracine Palano), Ann (Nancy Faulkner) and Ellen Drake (Pat Sweeney).

Guiding the young thespians in developing their theatrical refinement was Woburn High's answer to David Merrick "Edson L. Kimball."

Dates are greeted in the Reception line.

Life Under the Sea

Reminiscent of a more Romantic Era, girls in formal gowns danced with their uniformed escorts in surroundings displaying years of nautical history. The third Naval Ball, sponsored by the NJROTC Battalion, gave evidence of the value of precise planning and attention to detail in insuring the smooth functioning of a social event. This third dance was a social success and indicated that in future years the Naval Ball will have become one of the highlights of the social calendar.

Women's Club Representatives

At the regular meetings of the Woburn Women's Club, six honor students represented the high school. Enjoying lunch and the varied programs presented enabled the students to become better acquainted with the social and cultural offerings of the community. Attendance gives meaning to the definition of "woman" in a modern society.

National Honor Society

To give distinction to the members of the Senior Class who possess the qualities of Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service is the purpose of the National Honor Society. The goal of the Honor Society is to provide not only recognition of past deeds, but also to stimulate incentive to further Scholastic accomplishment, to give Service to the community, and to set an example of Leadership and Character.

The members of the National Honor Society should not be viewed as individuals but as a complete body striving for advancement. They are the personification of the ideal qualities which compose their generation. The manifestation of these qualities of Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service help to establish a better society.

Honor Society — This year the honor society sponsored a christmas drive called "Christmas is giving" and fed a larger number of Woburn's underprivileged families.

Junior Rotarians

Through attendance at weekly luncheon meetings at the Boy's Club, Junior Rotarians are introduced to civic leaders and become aware of the community's concerns. These outstanding school citizens are selected on the basis of scholarship and participation in school functions. Members of the Rotary hope that exposure to the ideals exemplified by this service organization will carry into the students' adult life.

Student Council Varies Program

Participating in more activities than ever before, the Student Council provided its members with many opportunities to participate in and observe the varied functions in a society. Council members conducted the class elections and tried to create school unity.

In addition to the annual Booster Dance and Mother-Daughter Banquet, the Student Council sponsored a "car smash" to arouse spirit for the Thanksgiving Day game. A milk drinking contest and a cake sale were two money-raising activities.

Demonstrating their interest in local politics, council members regularly attended School Committee meetings. In the high school, the council enacted newer laws governing student life, such as a relaxed dress code.

Theory, Competition Highlight Meetings

Each Monday afternoon, the Woburn High School Bridge Club meets in room 6322 with its instructor, Mr. Matthew McNamara. At these meetings, the members learn the theory of the game as well as actually participating in the competition. By studying the theory of the game, the members learn to reveal the content of their cards to their partner in the preliminary bidding.

As well as having matches among the club members, tournaments with other high schools are part of the program. In the past, the representatives from Woburn have done very well in inter-school competition and are looking forward to further success in the coming school years.

Many Facets of Health Care Explored

To insure that each girl interested in nursing and related areas was aware of the many opportunities in the health field, the Future Nurses Club held monthly meetings where speakers presented information on admission requirements and application procedures for nursing, x-ray, and laboratory schools.

To give an indication of the satisfaction derived from giving service to others, club members made glass Santa Clauses and filled them with candy for the elderly. During the holiday season, former members returned for a social, where they related their experiences and problems in adjusting to added schooling and work experiences.

Numerous Trips Provide Cultural Enrichment for the Art Guild

The Art Guild, under the direction of Mr. Frank Newark and Miss Bulova, enabled students to enrich their knowledge and appreciation of art by visiting museums and exhibits throughout the year. The Guild took its annual trip to the DeCordova Museum in Lincoln, Mass. Trips to other museums were made whenever possible. This year, as in years past, members of the Guild helped to design and paint the scenery for the Three-One-Act-Plays. The last project of the year was the presentation of the Annual Spring Art Exhibition, in which the students displayed their artistic talents to an appreciative and enthusiastic public.

Sitting: Sara Mortenson, Roberta Karchenes, Egilda Grossi, Gracine Palano, Gayle Fitzpatrick. Standing: Mark Gillis, Keith Gaffney, Miss Bulova, Mr. Newark, Kevin Tringale.

Quality Through Originality

Ideas of the present and the knowledge of the past inspire creative minds to record their beliefs and ideas of life. The Scribes is a group of such creative people, whose goal is "to write tomorrow's literature today." An organization formed in the fall of 1966, the Scribes succeeded in writing three original, highly-imaginative plays.

After writing these plays, the Scribes selected and rehearsed actors and actresses, constructed scenery and made appropriate costumes for the performances. The plays were characterized by suspense, satire, symbolism, humor, and imagination. The novel approaches to the presentation of these plays, revealed the dedication and the desire for perfection of author, director, advisor, and member.

The "Experimental Theater" is an overwhelming success. It proves that students are capable of producing literature that has not only qualities of professional undertakings, but meaning and insight as perceived by youth.

Debating Society Probes Timely Subjects

The debating society strove to teach the principles of argument to interested students through discussion and debate on timely subjects.

In order to win his argument, a student had to master all the facts pertaining to his subject, thus in researching and presenting his subject, he learned not only about argument and debate, but current affairs as well.

Drill Team Enhances N.J.R.O.T.C. Program

In this first year of the Naval Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps, the Drill Team was conspicuous for its precision. satisfaction that accompanies mastery of complex skills.

Under the leadership of the Naval Science faculty, and the direct leadership of Cadets Robert Mann and George Morris the Drill Team marched in the Veteran's Day Parade and performed at the Thanksgiving Day football game at Winchester. In a year of many highlights, one that will remain memorable was the visit to the cruiser U.S.S. Boston at the Boston Naval Shipyard, a visit that gave the team a view of the modern navy.

Europe Dominates Language Clubs

Students interested in Supplementary classroom instruction in foreign languages are offered various opportunities to develop their linguistic abilities and extend the periphery of the program to broaden their knowledge of a country's culture and heritage. Through a variety of activities the French, German, Russian, and Spanish Clubs the students find time to observe a country's authors, musicians and governments. Field trips, films, and guest speakers enhance the meetings and successful cake sales fill the treasury.

This year members of various clubs visited France and Spain in what is hoped to be the first of many enlightening tours.

Science Club

Interested students of science, stimulated by classroom work and private inquiry, gather at meetings of the Science Club to further their quest for knowledge.

The works of especially ambitious and conscientious students are displayed at the massive annual Science Fair. The fair, in addition to encouraging personal inquiry, provides an opportunity for the general public and the student body to familiarize themselves with the scientific pursuits of a large number of students.

Interest Stimulated in Medical Fields

Guided by Mrs. Susan B. Vogel of the Biology Department, the Pre-Med-Biology Club is one of the most popular in the school. The main purpose of the club is to stimulate interest among students in the medical profession and in the various biological fields.

Math Team Has Successful Fourth Year

Since 1969 was a successful year for the Math Team, Woburn High was advanced to a higher division in the Massachusetts Mathematics League. Despite the more intense competition, the members of the team did extremely well at their monthly meets. Meeting after school many times during the week in preparation for the contests gave the members valuable practice which culminated in many individual and team honors.

Assistance to Library

The Library Aids is a fairly new organization in the school. Its purpose is to speed up the processing of new materials in the school so that new books and materials are available to the faculty as early as possible.

The work is done in the library by the members during study periods. The members paste pockets and book plates in each book. Then each book is stamped to show it belongs to Harlow Library. Then books are covered with plastic jackets. After this the cards for each book are filed. The members also do other clerical jobs around the library.

Leadership, Equality, Opportunity

Under the leadership of Mr. Richard Qualey the Leo Club progressed through its second year since its birth in 1968. The Leo Club which is sponsored by the Woburn Lion Club consists of selective youths from the High School. During the past year the Leo Club participated in many successful projects, some of which were: the installation of new officers in November, The outgoing project of collecting books for our men in Vietnam, their assistance in the Lion's Club Light Bulb Sale and their very successful Valentines Day Project. Under this leadership the Leo Club hopes to continue its fine progress.

Key Club Promotes Youth Service

The Key Club this year continued its assistance to the school and community under the leadership of Mr. Eugene Mucci. Primarily a service club, the Key Club, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Woburn, continued in this endeavor by presenting a wide range of excellent guest speakers and a wide variety of informative topics, which include the youth of today, narcotics and the many opportunities in the world of business.

In service to the school and community the Key Club has distributed food and gift baskets to needy families during the holiday season, sponsored a dance for retarded children, sold football programs, checked coats and sold refreshments at school functions and made many donations to the school department.

Talent and Spirit

Again this year, under the direction of Mr. Edson Kimball, Woburn High's band and orchestra made excellent presentations at many school activities. Not only did the band encourage our football team by its performances at the games and rallies, but also it reflected upon Woburn High's competence by its exhibitions in local parades. The orchestra made many meritable renditions of musical composition throughout the year — the Christmas Concert, the Senior Play, Prize Speaking Contest, and numerous assemblies.

Eleven colorful and spirited female members of the Senior High filled the crowd and teams with enthusiasm at our inter-scholastic competitions. The cheerleaders never lost their pep and inspiration. Accompanying the band and cheerleaders in the support of our football squad were the Tumblers, the Majorettes, Color Guard, and Emblem Bearers, all demonstrating Woburn High's precision and spirit on the field.

Literary Contributions Dominate the Nomad

For the past several years, Woburn High School has had a literary magazine of great quality. This school magazine, the Nomad, uses only material written by students of the school. The Literary Staff selects the best short stories, essays, and poems from those submitted by members of each class. The magazine also features art essays drawn by members of the Art Staff. The magazine published two issues and celebrated another successful year.

Junior Assistants Prove Indispensable

Whenever a faculty member needs a report or material for class work, whenever a student's term report is overdue, or whenever a club needs typewritten material, Woburn High's answer to these and many other similar dilemmas is the Junior Assistant's Club.

The membership of this club consists of girls in the business course since only they have the skills necessary for such typing assignments.

'70 INNITOU '70

Many hours of selecting pictures, planning layouts, and writing articles determine the worth of this yearbook. The 1970 INNITOU staff worked diligently toward one goal: to relive memories of high school years.

The pictures in this book depict emotions of joy, participation, and bewilderment. The layouts represent the contemporary style of a dominant photograph. And the articles record the adventures of each social activity, the disappointment of the teams' losses, the joy of their victories, and the major events of each organization.

High Hopes and a Bitter End

With several returning lettermen from the 1968 Tanner Football Squad, prospects were bright for a second winning season for Len Hill and his team. However injuries to key players quarterback, Paul Carroll and end, Tom Kinton, and lapses in crucial situations decided many close games in the oppositions favor. Nevertheless due to the outstanding leadership of Co-captains Dan Woolard and Tony Montecalvo and the hitting of the linemen and backs Woburn was never humiliated on the field. The spirit and determination of the boys was evident to the end of the season when Woburn led undefeated Winchester 12-6 at halftime but succumbed in the second half. However because of this contest with the Middlesex league champion Woburn's entrance into this conference next year should be viewed with optimism.

Tension is evident while Woburn awaits the start of the game.

Tanners Bounce Into New League

Initiation into the rugged Middlesex League was evidenced by an experienced Tanner basketball team statistically landing in the middle of the conference. Bolstered by early victories the Tanners were shocked into awareness of the hoop's calibre by defeats at the hands of Lexington and Melrose. The remainder of the season see-sawed between Woburn and their opponents. Hampered at times by injuries the Tanner's nevertheless were impressive on the court most of the season. Playing their final season for Coach Dick Skeffington were Ed Shankle, Bob Lang, Bob Bergstrom, Dennis Galante, Al Houston, Bill Cantillon, Mike Ryan, Bill Nolan, Jay Joyce, and Dante Marchitelli.

Pucksters Check Into New League

The swiftly moving reflections glared against the cold grey arena ice as Coach Bob Connolly cautiously studied his latest edition of Woburn High's hockey teamwork their plays in the early morning practice session. "Not much experience, hut plenty of hustle, they'll come along alright," barked the coach as he moved into the playing area to direct the scrimmage at closer quarters.

Led by Co-captains Jimmy Lynch, Jimmy Murphy, and Dennis Carpenter, the 1969-1970 hockey team shot their way into the Middlesex League. The early part of the season proved disappointing for the young Tanners as they appeared shaky in this new atmosphere. Bolstered by mid-season victories they proved to themselves and their followers that they were here to stay.

Successful Season for Sweeneymen

Dennis waits on deck.

"It's my turn already?"

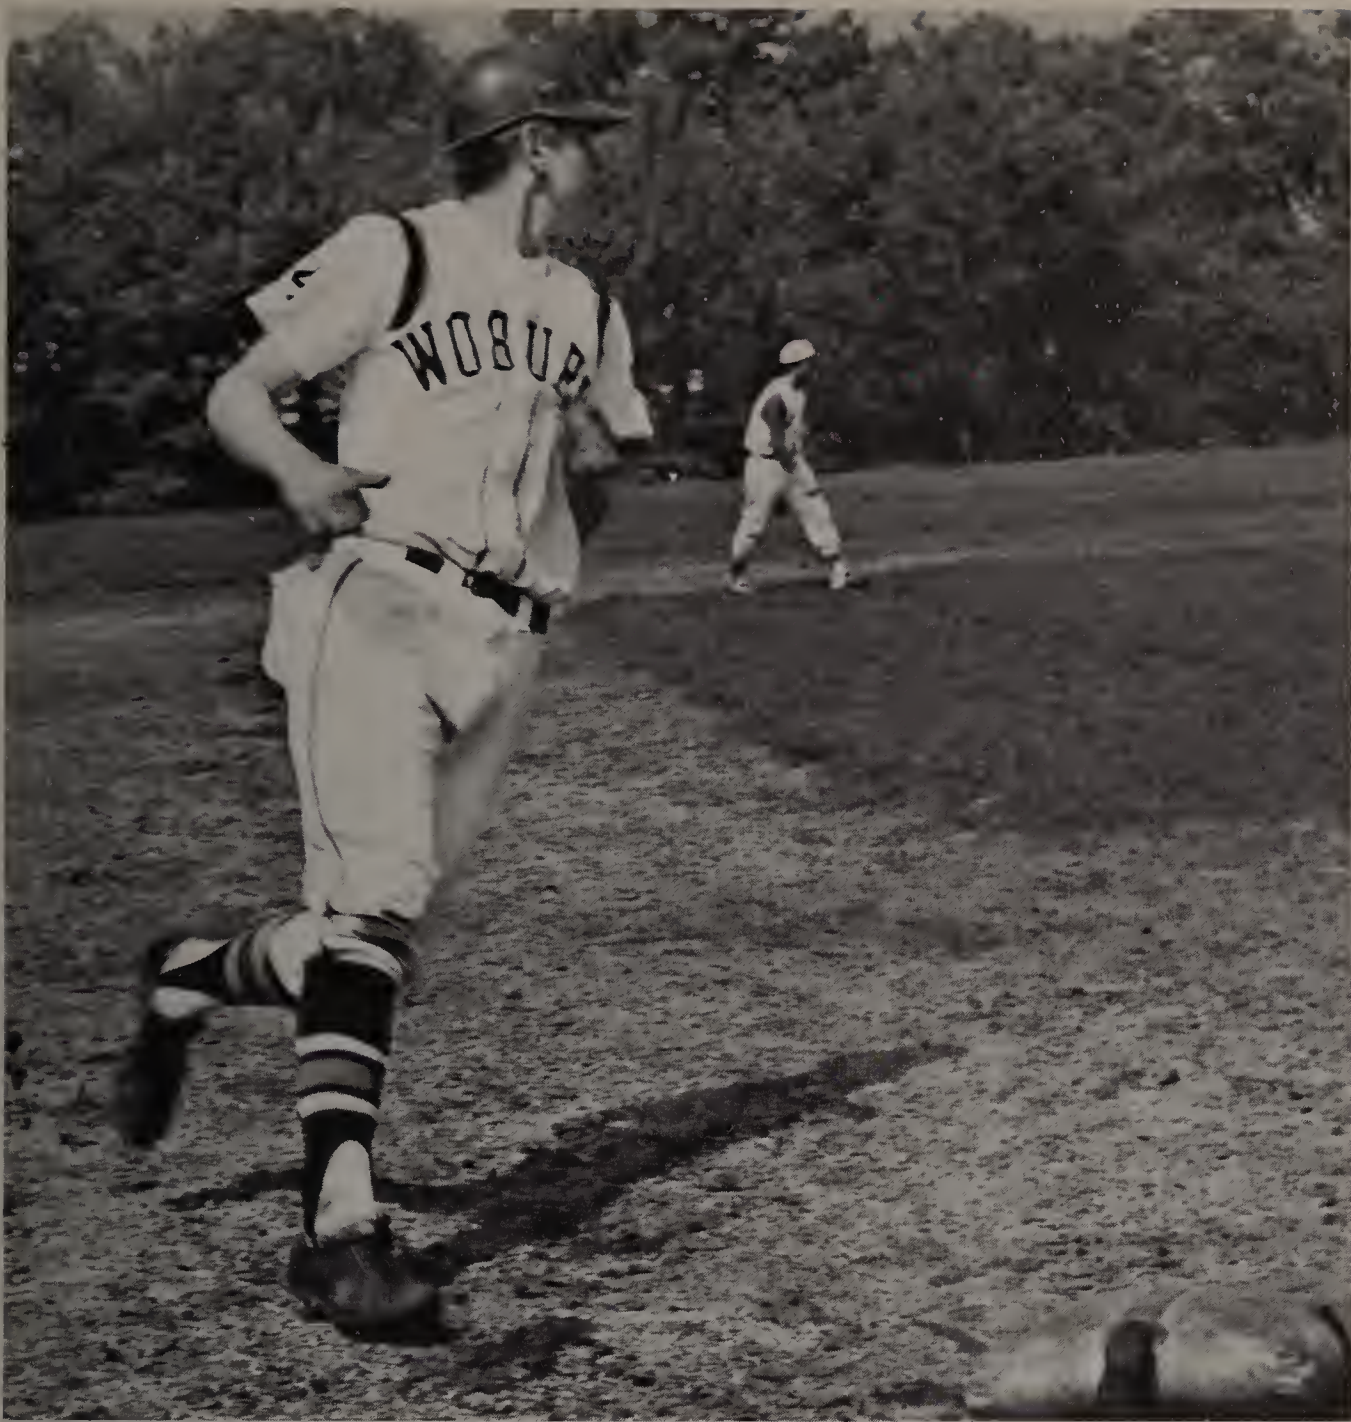

Coach Paul Sweeney's baseball club took the field this season with only four returning lettermen after two extremely successful seasons. However a strong nucleus developed because of the strength of last year's junior varsity members. The Tanners were in contention throughout the season and the young squad attained many memorable victories in the strong Middlesex League. Behind the bats of Bob Lang, Dave Greekwood and Tom Kinton and the fine defensive fielding of Jim Lynch, Dennis Galante and Paul Carroll the Tanners proved through spirit competitiveness and team cooperation that they were and will be vying for the championship.

Bright Season for Track

During the fall of 1969 Coach Tom Treacy's harriers were strongly in contention for Cross Country honors. Entrance into the Middlesex League proved successful as the Tanners ended with a 5-4 record that with a bit of luck could have been improved. Graduating runners like John Rabbitt and Phil Tortolano may hinder the Tanners somewhat but the return of George Clark, Bob Smith and Billy Rabbitt should improve next year's standings.

Indoor Track led by Co-Captains Steve Hogan and Bob Venezia paralleled Cross Country with a 5-3-1 record. However the scene was brightened by the unbelievable performance of senior star Steve Hogan who won the Dartmouth College Invitational for eastern runners and placed 4th in the nationals in New York.

Spring Track was again extremely successful and Coach Treacy and Murphy hoped for another well fought campaign.

Coach Bob Deluca and his soccer team entered the powerful and well established Middlesex League this year with high hopes for a successful season. They experienced several key injuries to valuable players, including co-captain Danny Desmond, which resulted in a disappointing season. They were redeemed by the unanimous selection of Paul Gibson to the Middlesex League first team All-Stars as a fullback. He also received the Jakie Abreau Memorial Trophy, given annually to the most valuable player on the Woburn High Soccer Team.

Other awards were given to sophomores Gary Scarvalas, the team's most improved player, and Frank Erwin, who for the second consecutive year, led the team in scoring.

A veteran squad of golfers did battle for Woburn High in its second year of participation in the Middlesex League. Fine performances were also given by Gary Shearman, Brian Linehan, John Fumicello, Mark Ludwig, and Chuck Sullivan.

Although Miss Ames was not available for the last few games Miss Joyce was elected to bring the team through, and she proved to be very successful.
